

Belonging Never Felt Better™

Regulation E and Your Account

If transactions totaling more than your account's available balance are attempted, the following chart illustrates how it will be handled, and whether an overdraft will occur - both before and after August 15, 2010.

		Your Current Overdraft Protection Coverage:
		No Protection	By Account Transfer Only	Account Transfer + Courtesy Pay
How Overdrafts are Handled	Currently (until August 15, 2010)	Debit card will be declined	Automatic transfers will be made (in increments of $100 when possible), from designated overdraft protection accounts. When no funds are available, further transactions will be declined.	Automatic transfers will be made (in increments of $100 when possible), from designated overdraft protection accounts. When no funds are available, further transactions will be paid up to your account's Courtesy Pay limit.
	With Regulation E "Opt In" (on/after August 15)	See above	See above	See above
	With NO "Opt In" (on/after August 15)	See above	See above	Same as above, EXCEPT : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ATM transactions will be declined • Everyday debit card transactions will be declined

Transaction Types:

Affected by Regulation E:
(You must opt in before August 15, 2010 to continue protection of these transactions.)

Everyday debit transactions
Gas • Groceries • Coffee • One-time online purchases

ATM transactions
Cash withdrawals

Not Affected by Regulation E:
(These transactions will be paid up to your Courtesy Pay limit, regardless of whether an opt-in request is received.)

Recurring debit transactions
Membership, subscription fees
Automatic utility payments

Electronic (ACH) transfers
PG&E • AT&T • Govt. payments

Written checks

Reminder: A fee will be assessed each time we must make a transfer or pay a transaction to cover an overdraft on your account. Automatic transfer fees $5.00 each time; Courtesy Pay fees (for transactions paid by Coast Central) are $27.00 each. Note that Courtesy Pay is a discretionary service, and is only available to members with qualifying accounts.

Not sure of your current coverage? Give us a call with any questions: (707) 445-8801 or (800) 974-9727

Ways to opt in: Online (www.coastccu.org) • By mail • By phone • In person at any member services branch