Use of Cookies

Cookies are small text files that can store information. There are two types of cookies: session cookies and persistent cookies. Session cookies expire when you close your browser, and persistent cookies stay on your computer until you delete them. Coast Central Credit Union and our website provider may use both session and persistent cookies to customize your web experience and to analyze web traffic.

Coast Central and our website provider use cookies in the delivery of display advertisements to our website visitors. When an individual visits coastccu.org, a persistent cookie is dropped onto the browser. When that person leaves our website and then returns to our website, we are able to recognize that browser cookie and serve a display ad.

These cookies do not store any personally identifiable information (PII), but they do record the web pages visited on our site. This type of information can in no way be used to identify a specific person or user of our service. This data will never be shared with third parties or used to display ads for a third party without explicit written permission from all parties.

Coast Central does not link the non-personally identifiable information (NPPI) described here to any personally identifiable information provided to us.

If you use multiple browsers or devices, and would like to opt out of ads through our website, you will need to opt out on each browser or device, and if you delete your cookies you will need to opt out again.

To learn more about how we protect your personal information, please see our Privacy Policy.
